My husband, Herb, was diagnosed with breast cancer in February, 2016. He had a double mastectomy in March and had 4-5 months of chemo. You don't hear very much about male breast cancer – my husband and I want everyone to know – MEN do get breast cancer, too. I can speak from a caregiver perspective and Herb can speak as a survivor. This is a topic that is near and dear to our hearts. When I ask a room full of men when they did their last breast exam – they look at me like I am crazy. We need to change this! Herb and I can help!
